The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—House will accept a compromise bill on the utilities holding company issue today in a letter to the Senate. The letter was made public after a discussion of the method by which the compromise drafted by Barthelme Democrat of Kentucky, to end the dispute over abolition of holding companies had been brought before the house.

Rayburn, seen a copy of the proposed bill, said it was a "good substitute for the public utility bill" and that he would support
it. He said the bill was a com-

NEW RATES CHARGED ON SEPT. 10 BILLS

Gas Company Fixes Time for Putting New Cost Schedule
Into Effect.

Gas bills based on meter readings taken on and after Sept. 10 will be made up on Marion's new gas rates, C. F. Bronson, manager of the Marion district of the Ohio
Fuel Gas Co., said today.
He explained that 19 days are required to read the gas meters
in the city and that it is consequently necessary to fix an arbitrary time after which all meter readings will be charged at the new rates.

When meters are read the amount of gas consumed in the preceding 30-day period is noted by the reader and rates are applied to the amount of gas consumed to determine the bill for the month.
The new gas rates are contained in an ordinance of city council which becomes effective today, following approval of council's resolutions by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co.
yesterday. Under the new rates cost of 5,000 cubic feet of gas is $2.65, an increase of 50 cents over the cost of $2.15 for the same

2 SUSPECTS IN HIJACKING SLIP BY POLICE NET

Forty State, County and City
Officers Search Large Area
for Fleeing Men.

MYSTERY ENTERS CASE

Whereabouts of Regular Driver Unreported Since Leaving Columbus

Law enforcement authorities of Marion and central Ohio yesterday staged one of the greatest organized man hunts in the history of the county when they thought they had trapped two alleged truck hijackers who staged a running gun battle with police early Wednesday morning in a "Macre" cornfield four miles west of the city.

The men escaped the posse of approximately 40 officers and departed when darkness put an end to the hunt. It is believed that they made their escape either on a freight train or fled through nearby fields.

A mystery angle entered the case when police were unable to account for the whereabouts of the man who was driving the truck when it left North Carolina and who registered at a Columbus O. freight terminal Monday.
Police have learned that the name of the driver is F. B. Lamond, 25.
They have not learned his address.
H. W. Morris Inc. of Greenboro, N. C. owner of the truck has informed police that Lamond was the driver and officials of the Columbus terminal said a man registered under that name drove his cargo enroute to Columbus City Monday, from the terminal Monday. At that time Lamond was alone.

Whether the two men sought here hijacked the truck from Lamond is a question speculated on by police.

Subject Karpis Angle
A number of the officers were conjecturing as to the possibility of one of the hunted pair being Alvin Karpis, America's public enemy No. 1 who was reported in news stories to be in the vicinity of Dayton Tuesday. It was said that a threatening letter received from Karpis by J. Edgar Hoover headquarters of the department of justice was mailed from that city. It was reported that federal agents were in Marion yesterday.

A highway patrolman said a checkup of the description of one of the men, both of whom were said by Police Captain Ora De-Weese to be of foreign extraction tallied with that of Karpis. It was pointed out as significant that highway patrol officers and men from the Columbus barracks armed with machine guns joined local authorities in the search.
The hunt came as an aftermath to a gun battle Capt. DeWeese and Patrolman Fred Norton fought with the two men shortly after 2 a. m. yesterday when they attempted to apprehend them in an automobile and truck chase on state route No. 95 west of Marion.
The pair abandoned their freight

RELIEF CLIENTS REFUSE WORK

Four in County Reject Jobs Protesting Low Federal Wage Scale.

ACTION IS PLANNED

Will Be Dropped from Rolls If Found Able to Perform Tasks.

Four Marion county relief clients who have been assigned to work on WPA projects and have refused to take the jobs protesting against the wage scale provided for their work will be dropped from the federal relief lists if an investigation shows they are able bodied and able to work.
This announcement came from John Abel, county relief director today after he had received instructions from federal relief headquarters for Ohio regarding handling of cases of employable clients who refused to work.

The $4-a-month wage provided for common labor in the WPA schedules has been criticized by some labor groups as being inadequate.
Instructions received from Columbus by Mr. Abel state definitely that when relief officials have definite knowledge that an individual has refused to accept a job offered him by WPA immediate study shall be made to determine the reason for his refusal.
If no definite and legitimate reason can be given for such refusal other than unwillingness to accept the security wage scale of WPA,
that person shall immediately be removed from the relief rolls.

If a man who wants to work in not allowed to go to work because of interference of local groups in the community such a man shall be referred to the local public relief body the municipality township or county for care and his case becomes the responsibility of the community in which he lives.
The instructions state.

Mr. Abel also was advised that all other forms of relief shall be withdrawn from a relief client
when he receives his first pay check from the WPA.

SCHOOL BOARD VOTES OK TO 1936 BUDGET

Includes Provision for Restoring Part of Pay Cuts to Teachers.

TOTAL OF 13% HIGHER

Public Hearing Scheduled,
Four Teachers and Three Janitors Hired.

The Marion board of education
last night approved the city school board for the 1936 school year providing restoration of a portion of the salary cuts given teachers
during the last several years.

Four teachers and three janitors were hired.
A budget calling for an expenditure of $386,000 which represents an increase of 13 per cent over this year's budget was approved and will come before the people for a hearing prior to its adoption at a board meeting the second Monday in September. The budget was set up on a nine-month school year basis.

The 1935 budget which will carry the operation of the schools
through the remainder of this year is $349,380 and is based upon a nine-month school year. The 1934 budget based on only an eight and one-half month school term was $312,025.

The 13 per cent increase over the 1934 budget represents for the most part restoration of salary cuts
Superintendent C. A. Hudson said.
He pointed out that teachers are now working on rate of about 25 per cent made four and five years ago. The 13 per cent increase will permit a restoration of a portion of these cuts as well as any flat increase he said.

In view of the rising cost of living and the fact that Marion has the lowest salary scale in the state, Mr. Hudson said he felt that the restoration of a small portion of these cuts is entirely justifiable.
Mr. Hudson said the selection of competent teachers is becoming
very difficult because of the low
salary scale he explained.
The 13 per cent increase in the budget also will provide for some increase in the cost of business and operation of the school plants. Increase in the cost of materials and increase in the amount allocated to school libraries, which during the depression have been getting practically nothing the superintendent said.

Will Set Hearing Date
The preparation and the approval of the budget will be an extensive work on an extremely low salary scale we feel that the restoration of a small portion of these cuts is entirely justifiable.
Mr. Hudson said the selection of
competent teachers is becoming
very difficult because of the low
salary scale he explained.
The 13 per cent increase in the

ness and operation of the

5,000 IN BLOOMINGGROVE TO OBSERVE CENTENNIAL

One-Day Celebration Marks Century for Village Founded by Ancestors of President Harding.

By BOB BYRD
Marion Star Staff Writer
BLOOMINGGROVE, O., Aug. 22.—
A huge crowd of former residents and visitors joined Bloominggrove residents yesterday in a centennial celebration that all agreed was a decided success.

It was estimated by residents of the community in charge of the celebration that nearly 5,000 persons visited the village to witness a program that marked the turn of a century for this northern Morrow county village of 75 residents.

The community commemorated
the memory of a distinguished native son—the late President Warren G. Harding—paid tribute to the pioneer settlers who endured hardships to establish the settlement in 1835 and welcomed former residents, some of whom came many miles to take part in the day's activities.

Geo. H. Van Fleet, Marion Editor and Associate of Harding, Taken by Death

GEORGE H. VAN FLEET

Of His Forty Years Spent
in Newspaper Work, 37
Were with The Star in Various Capacities.

RETIRED IN 1932

Close Personal Friendship and Business Association with Late President
Began in 1895.

George H. Van Fleet, "I for 37 years prominently identified with publication of The Marion Star, died suddenly at his home at 477
East Church street at 11:05 a. m.
today.

Death was caused by a heart attack that followed general hardening of the arteries. He had been in several times in the last year and had remained at home for more than a month during his last illness. He had been in bed most of the last week.

Lying in bed half an hour after his physician had left on the morning he asked Mrs. Van Fleet for a glass of water. He died before she reached his bedside with the water.

He is survived by Mrs. Van Fleet and two sons, Mrs. Elizabeth Deal of Marion and Mrs. Sarah Stahl of Los Angeles, Calif.

Funeral services were set tentatively for Saturday afternoon at the home, but arrangements had not been completed early this afternoon.

Closest Personal Career
Mr. Van Fleet's death brought to a close the life of one of the most colorful personalities among Marion's native born sons.

He was one of the few remaining friends who enjoyed a close personal friendship with the late President Harding and for 40 years he was associated with Marion newspapers chiefly The Star with which he was identified for 37 years.

The warm personal friendship with the late President began when Mr. Van Fleet joined The Star staff in 1895 after about three years with The Marion Mirror.
He continued until the President's death on Aug. 8, 1923, in San Francisco, Calif. He was the only editor ever to manage a newspaper for a President of the United States a responsibility which he assumed when Mr. Harding was elected to the United States senate in 1916 and in which capacity he
tion to the presidency.

Shortly after the election Mr.
Van Fleet became president of the Harding Publishing Co. and general manager of The Star continuing these associations until the late President sold the newspaper to Rush Moore Newspapers Inc., the sale of which was made public on June 22, 1923, the day the President started on the western trip from which he did not return alive.

Benjamin Editor of Star
After the sale of the paper Mr.
Van Fleet was appointed editor, in charge of preparation and supervision of the editorial page and served in this position until January of 1932 when he was named publisher. He was with this paper from the time he left from active newspaper work April 23, 1932.
Since his retirement, he spent most of his time at his home here.

He was chief editorial writer of The Star for a period of years and became widely known for his keen and terse analysis of the pertinent subjects of the times.

An editorial which he wrote at the time of the President's death was a simple, sincere tribute reprinted by newspapers throughout the United States and in foreign countries.

The closeness of Mr. Van Fleet's association with Mr. Harding was attested when word of the President's death reached Marion in the early morning of Aug. 8, 1923. It was Mr. Van Fleet who carried the tragic news to the President's agent father, Dr. George T. Harding, at his home at 488 East Center street.

After he left the Harding home
Mr. Van Fleet returned to The Star office and set to work preparing the edition of The Star which was to carry all available
details of the death of his friend,
the nation's leader and the builder of the paper. He said later that it was one of the most difficult jobs in his career as a newspaperman because, shocked and grief-stricken as he was by the President's death, he had to "carry on."

Return on Funeral Train
Mr. Van Fleet went to Washington to be there when the body of the President arrived, and was on the funeral train which brought the body back to Marion.
When the Harding Memorial association was formed, Mr. Van Fleet was made a member. He served as a member of the executive committee and in October of 1932 was elected a trustee to succeed the late James F. Presdengat.
As a member of the association
Mr. Van Fleet was one of the men who took a most active part in arrangements for the dedication of the Harding memorial, which took place on June 10, 1931, with former President Robert Taft giving the dedicatory address, and former President Calvin Coolidge presiding.

Sherrill Wants Politics Barred In Health Unit

Suggests Larger Personnel and Better Facilities in Laboratories.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22.—Gov.
Davey's state government survey committee advised him today to remove from political control the office of state director of health.

Reorganization of the department including increased personnel and enlargement of laboratory facilities headed a list of recommendations submitted by the survey director Col. C. O. Sherrill.

A recommended budget of $306, 822 to carry out the program showed a net saving of $6,854.50
over appropriations made for 1935 but was $600 higher than that for last year.

The survey cited the lack of skilled leadership and the lack of continuity of policy concerning the office of department director.

Selection of a director, the committee urged, should be made by the governor from a list approved by the public health council.

Recommended additions to the department were assistant director at $6,000 a year, epidemiologist at $3,000, dental health director at $3,000, public health nurse supervisor at $1,000 and three public health nurses at $1,000 each.

The department's efficiency, the report said, has been handicapped by budget reductions and personnel shortage.

Distribution of a subsidy fund to 164 state health districts, the report contended, should be made on the basis of their need and efficiency.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Accepts Madge's Plan to Give Leslie Dry Clothes.
I echoed his chuckle as I went back to the closet and selected underclothing, socks, shoes, tie, shirt, belt, handkerchief and suit of clothing from the pile of things I had ready for the relief committee. I put them all in a bundle and rushed back to the window beneath which Jim was waiting.

"That fellow is sure mad," he said. "He's cursing a blue streak." "But he's safely handcuffed, isn't he?" I asked anxiously. "Oh, yes. They aren't taking a single chance on him this time." "Then hurry over there with the clothes, Jim," I urged. "I shan't draw a free breath until that man is out of this yard and safe in jail."

"I don't think you need to worry any more then, ma'am," Jim returned reassuringly as he turned away. "They're taking awful good care of him, and Mr. Graham whispered to me to tell you that you weren't going to start until the troopers telephoned back from the jail that he was safe under lock and key."

Special to The Star
NEW YORK Aug. 22 - I like to think of Will Rogers as living on as Lincoln did, come but once a generation.
Rogers' change was temporary.

Certainly no material crack-up should halt that blithe spirit. Freed of the cloddish body he must be ascending new heights sailing new peaks. This I firmly believe. Consciousness after death is not a mere "something to be hoped for" with me but a conviction—as certain and fixed as the scatter of stars in the sky.

If Will Rogers were not one of the most talented men of his time he could have achieved greatness for this simple statement in a world swollen and angrily red with hate: "I never met a man I did not like." Trite yes—but all truths are trite. "Thou shalt love thy neighbor" is trite.

I have known Rogers for 20 years. Intimately for 10. We met when he was a kid and fresh from his every-hour press agent for Flo Zeigfeld and he was the rope twirling gum chewing comedian star of the Frolic Road. He called Zeigfeld "Mister Zeegfeld" then as he did to Zeigfeld a last lingering days when he looked out for him and later for the interests of his widow and daughter.

Some years later Rogers and I were back here in the same audacious outfit. As a race officer usual when he came to town or exchanged telephone insults. I loved and admired him as I have few men. We have batted at political conventions and sat on the dais together at many stupid banquets. In the days when such things were not the terrible bore to me they are today.

Devoted to Family.

I have visited at his many recent ranch in Beverly and seen the tenderness and devotion that he expressed for his wife two years and the especial apple of his eye his daughter Mary. I never knew him nor has anyone else to do a mean or petty thing ill-naturedly.

His friends and family are largely of that quality that should be imitated. Two men did things that he did. There was a time walking on the street with him in Kansas City that he turned suddenly in a rather second rate clothing store.

"Want a brown suit?" he blurted to the surprised clerk who, of course, recognized him. His suit out three, decided on the third and transferred his pocket possession to him. He got more mileage out of that than any man could be known. He simply put one on and wore it out.

So I suggested a new tie. He rifled through a dozen or so on a rack, nervously snatched one, the modest designs and tooled the discarded one to the young clerk grinned. "Take that home to your Ma. It's better than soup bone."

Mute by Criticism.

I have seen Rogers in tears to please one of the smart alert New York comedians. He was a New York written something that hurt him something unfair, savage and without justification. Yet there was no rancor, no stinging invective which he could be the master of. Had spent years in the hurly-burly of the ranch house.

But he simply read it shook up recovered and talked of nothing any more pleasant. He had things else to talk with the comedians. Many of them were and they formed an unbeatable tri in yarning and riposte.

Cobb and Carter lounging back in easy chairs and Rogers walking up and down twisting turning juggling things on the desk peering into the kitchen fearing up matches—always like a fighter on edge. He never seemed fatigued a moment at the studio or a night of rehearsal or anything slowed him up. In fact he was a man who only said "I'm tired." I have never heard it.

as always in the conversation calm, heading and darting about like a weaver in a hedge-crozier. Suddenly he jumped up, glanced at his wrist watch and said he must be off. He was to speak at a dinner as I recall of real estate men. He slouched out, turned to the doorway in that head lurch I understand is called "falling asleep." "So long folks!" I did not know, of course, that I was never to see him again in this world.

We drove Mrs. Rogers around the park before delivering her last talk. The talk always was about the same thing, and were going on a winter cruise to the Mediterranean. Before she left in a few weeks she was to go to Chicago and Will was to go from Bavaria for a weekend or so to my goodby. "Will be in to see you," she said, "and so tremulously that my love was great and splendid as any I have ever known."

So they are burying Will Rogers today—that is he bruised and injured body that was only his inner

OLD TIMERS LOSE BALL GAME, BUT BAFFLE FANS

Only Three in Guessing Contest Have Names Correct, Crowd Gets Big Laugh from Game.

Old Timers taking part in last night's novel game at Lincoln park displayed more skill in the art of making a guess than they did in the diamond. As a result, almost every guess was wrong as to the identity of the players. By the time the game was over, a crowd of 100 or more had gathered to see the game. The game was played on a field of grass, and the players were dressed in old-fashioned clothing. The game was a mix of baseball and football, and it was played in a very rough and tumble manner. The crowd was entertained by the game, and they laughed at the many mistakes made by the players. The game was a success, and it was enjoyed by all who watched it.

BANK CONTROL MEASURE GIVEN ROOSEVELT OK

Congressional Sponsors and Financial Authorities Attend Ceremony.

BOLSTERS RESERVE BOARD

Credit Agency To Include Members of Central Unit and 5 from Regional Groups.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—President Roosevelt today signed the measure giving the federal government greater control over credit.

Congressional sponsors, Sen. Charles McNary, Democrat of Oregon, and Rep. William C. Clegg, Democrat of Alabama, and special invitations to be present for this formal, end of the day, event in the White House, between the senate and house.

Morganthau Invited
The president of the Federal Reserve Board, Mr. Benjamin S. Morganthau, was invited to attend the ceremony.

Under the new law, credit control powers will rest in a committee comprising the seven members of the Federal Reserve Board and two representatives of the 12 regional Federal Reserve banks.

To prevent severe fluctuations in the flow of credit, this committee may order the purchase or sale of government securities by the 12 reserve banks. These operations will be confined to the open market, purchases direct from the treasury being prohibited.

Policies Mandatory
The open market policies will be mandatory on the banks but the committee is given power to exempt any it desires. Under existing law a bank may stay out of open market operations.

As a further check on the credit situation, the reserve board by majority vote is empowered by the new law to double the existing reserve requirements of 7, 10 and 15 per cent to be maintained against deposits.

The reserve banks will be required to restate their redemptive rates at least every 14 days. The board may either approve them, veto them or revise the rates.

The present reserve board of six appointive members, with the secretary of the treasury and comptroller of the currency as ex-officio members, is to be reorganized, effective Feb. 1, 1936, into a seven-member board with the ex-officio removed. Members cannot be removed hereafter except for cause.

To encourage more industrial activities, the reserve banks are authorized to make loans on collateral now regarded as eligible but which they regard as acceptable security.

Interlocking Boards Okay
Limited interlocking bank directorates will be permitted.

The existing temporary deposit insurance law, guaranteeing individuals deposits up to $5,000, is made permanent, with the annual assessment lowered to one-twelfth of one per cent of a bank's total deposits.

As a step toward uniting banking state banks in the insurance fund with deposits of $1,000,000 or more will be required to join the federal reserve system by 1942 to obtain insurance.

A senate provision relaxing existing prohibitions against banks of deposits underwriting securities was eliminated in conference after President expressed opposition.

Existing law on real estate loans by national banks was retained, except for a slight liberalization.

Whereas now five-year loans are limited up to 50 per cent of the appraised value, they could be made up to 60 per cent of appraised value for 10 years if secured by mortgages insuring repayment of at least 40 per cent of the loan in that period.

ROOSEVELT NAMES NEW SECURITY BOARD

Former New Hampshire Governor Is Chairman of Social Group.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—President Roosevelt today named John J. Winant, former governor of New Hampshire, as chairman of the new social security board.

The President nominated Arthur J. Altmeyer of Wisconsin and Vincent Morgan Miles of Arkansas as the other members.

Winant is a Republican. He was called upon by President Roosevelt a year ago to head a special committee investigating the textile strike.

ROGERS' BODY LAID TO REST

All Activity Halts in Los Angeles as Friends Pay Tribute to Home-Spun Wit.

50,000 FILE PAST BIER

Few Attend Church Service But 10,000 Present at Hollywood Bowl Rites.

By The Associated Press
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23—The somber last curtain was drawn for Will Rogers today.

His stocky, rough-hewn body was sealed away in a crypt at Forest Lawn Memorial park last yesterday after a brief ceremony at the Wee Kirk of the Heather.

It will rest there for awhile, until Mrs. Rogers takes it back to Oklahoma to be interred beside the bodies of his father and mother in the Chelsea cemetery.

While the rites were being said, the life of the whole community stopped.

Film Studios Silent
Business paused. Public offices were closed. More than two score Hollywood film studios were silent, and countless thousands of people participated in one way or another, in the homage to the home-spun philosopher.

Starting at 5 o'clock in the morning some 50,000 folk filed past a body, lying in state in a grove of trees at Forest Lawn. An even greater number failed to gain entrance. The body lay for five hours, and a cordon of police moved the crowd as fast as possible.

But there wasn't enough time. In the afternoon, while a few invited guests went to the private services at the Wee Kirk of the Heather, 10,000 gathered at the Hollywood bowl, and an unnumbered host assembled in the movie studios, and the community Presbyterian church in Beverly Hills.

It was probably the greatest tribute ever paid a private citizen.

Mountain of Flowers
At the chapel, a mountain of flowers was passed, the wreaths, figures, bouquets, and funeral pieces coming from all over the country, some represented a city or state; many were sent by organizations.

MOTHER, DAUGHTER KILLED ON TRESTLE

Trapped by Train on Bridge; Son Also Struck; Three Others Escape.

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 23—Mrs. Margaret Traxler, 37, and her daughter, June, 8, were killed late yesterday when a Baltimore & Ohio freight train trapped them on a railroad trestle over Big Creek.

Charles Traxler, 14, a son, also was struck by the train, but was thrown into an earth embankment and escaped with back injuries and a scalp laceration.

Three other children, Eugene Muller, 10, and his brother Robert, 10, and Louise Sattler, 14, threw themselves flat on the ties projecting from the tracks and escaped.

Mrs. Traxler, it is believed, dropped her daughter into the creek in an effort to save the girl's life as she dashed for the end of the trestle. The girl was dead, however, when rescuers found her.

The mother took her daughter in her arms and ran when the train's whistle was heard in an attempt to reach the end of the trestle. Her son also ran. The train struck them when they were still several feet from the end.

The three other children stretched out as near the edge of the trestle as they could get. The Sattler girl said she felt the breeze of the train.

Today a dog which the Traxler boy was carrying was killed.

SHERRILL SAYS OHIO EDUCATION NOT PROFICIENT

Urges System Be Rid of Frills Through United Statewide Control.

WOULD REMOVE POLITICS

Questions Consistency of Home Rule Coupled With State and Federal Aid.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 23—Ohio's education system lacks proficiency, the Sherrill government survey committee charged today, and should be divorced of "frills and furbelows."

It recommended a rational program of education, united statewide control, elimination of "pervasive political influences" and predicted "vague theories must make way sooner or later for stern realities."

Findings were made in a report to Gov. Davey, the first of a series of six on the state department of education and the state teachers retirement system.

Bowsher Raps Report
E. L. Bowsher, who succeeded Dr. B. O. Skinner as state education director last week, immediately took issue with the report.

While saying he was "very favorably impressed" by a number of the suggestions, he criticized the committee for advancing its own philosophy of education rather than making more suggestions for changes.

Expressing disagreement with "the personal views of the Sherrill committee's theory on education," Bowsher added:

"I believe that some of the educational advantages offered the youth of today are as much benefit as certain phases of the Three R's. Certainly there are many branches which make for a fuller, more rounded life than the so-called fundamental studies."

"Had the committee foregone the opportunity of advancing its own philosophy of education and given a more detailed recommendation on means of better administration, the report would have been more valuable."

Question Aid Policy
The committee, headed by Col. C. O. Sherrill, questioned the policy of state-federal aid to school districts and the principle of home rule in the face of this assistance.

Large Crowds Jam Sidewalks To See Parade

Record Throng For Hobby Show Makes Streets Impassable.

Thronged lined downtown streets last night to witness the second annual industrial parade, staged as part of the annual hobby show and homecoming celebration. Following the parade, larger than any to attend the week's program, crowds thronged Main street to see the parade, and for over an hour the South Main street sidewalks were virtually impassable.

Priests to parade entrants were distributed as follows: $10 for the best decorated float won by a Standard Oil Co. modernistic float which was topped by a throne on which sat Miss Marilyn, Meekle of 240 South Prospect street; $5 for the largest marching body participating in the parade won by members of Company D, Ohio National Guard; $5 for the oldest vehicle in the parade won by C. S. Haycock of Cardington who rode an 1868 model wooden bicycle through the streets.

The prizes were awarded by a committee of five judges: F. L. Alexander, Charles Heinen, J. R. Smith, Scott, Clarence W. Snyder and Robert W. Brown. The judging committee reviewed the parade from a second floor window at the corner of State and Center streets, although it was previously announced that they would be located on the courthouse steps.

Three Entrants Vie
Competition for the oldest vehicle centered around three entrants, a horse-drawn horse-drawn 1867 entered by the W. C. Boyd Funeral Home, Inc., an antiquated Chevrolet made in 1912, entered by the Haberman Co., and the prize-winning bicycle entered by Mr. Haycock. Called "Eonshaker" because of its rickety construction, the bicycle made entirely of wood except for steel rims on the wheels. Mr. Haycock has letters from the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, nationally famous museum, testifying that the bicycle is of a 1868-1869 model. He has had numerous offers to sell the vehicle. Mr. Haycock said, but he has repeatedly declined to part with it.

Army Engineers Say Sponsors "Must Make Up Minds" on Course To Pursue.

DIRECTORS WILL MEET

Two Possible Means of Action Outlined by Major General Markham.

Army engineers said today sponsors of the $36,000,000 Scioto-Sandusky conservancy project would have to "make up their mind" which course they wish to pursue "before any further action can be taken."

The Associated Press reported in a news dispatch from Washington, D. C.

W. E. Martin of Upper Sandusky, one of three directors of the conservancy district organization, said when notified of the army engineers' statements that directors of the district probably will meet in Columbus Monday to map a course of action.

In a letter to Congressman Arthur P. Lammick of Columbus, Maj. Gen. E. M. Markham, chief engineer of the army staff, promised that his department would give "every possible consideration" to the project.

He added, "The department, of course, is unable to consider it except on the basis desired by its local sponsors who must undertake important obligations in connection with its construction, maintenance and operation."

Markham said the project could

BRITON SAYS U.S. CANNOT STAY OUT OF NEXT WAR

Voices Strong Plea for America To Stand in With British in Effort To Curb Mussolini.

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Aug. 23—George Lansbury, radical leader of the opposition in parliament, said today the United States "cannot possibly keep out of the next war."

The gruff, bewhiskered labor leader made that assertion as the British public, with mingled feelings of relief and disappointment, pondered the decision of the emergency cabinet meeting and wondered why the nation had been called.

Lansbury voiced a strong plea for America to "stand in with us" in the Italy-Ethiopia crisis. He denounced the efficacy of the neutrality restriction before the congress of the United States.

"I don't believe it will be possible to rehabilitate it even to the extent we have done after the last war," he said.

"I want Great Britain and America to get down to the only solution of this grave problem, by sacrificing some of their overabundant markets and raw materials to these countries like Italy, that haven't enough for normal expansion. That isn't the question now."

"Now it is a question of war."

MARION BOY WINS $5,000 SCHOLARSHIP WITH COACH

Parents of John Imbody, 15, Hear Radio Announcement of Fisher Craftsmanship Awards Made at Quebec.

John Imbody, 15, of 689 Concord avenue, is one of six American and Canadian boys awarded $5,000 university scholarships by the Fisher Body Craftsmen guild at Quebec, Canada, last night.

The Marion youth, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Imbody, won the award for craftsmanship in building from raw materials a model Napoleon coach, which he made in a year's time.

He is the second Ohio youth to win scholarships in the annual craftsmen guild contests. Thomas Clark Jr. of 775 Mt. Vernon avenue having won a $1,000 scholarship in last year's competition. Clark was present when Imbody received his award last night at the fifth award guild dinner in Quebec.

Imbody's parents last night heard the radio broadcast in which their son's name was announced as one of the winners. When the microphone was turned over to him, he said, "Hello Mother and Dad, hello Marion. Am having a fine time; glad I won."

Later, he wired his parents, "Isn't it swell? I can't believe it." Winning on the first coach he entered in the annual competitions, he is now an alumnus of the guild and is barred from further competition. However, he is eligible to attend all of the future guild meetings as an alumnus.

The prize winning coach will be displayed by the Fisher Body Co. a short time and then be returned to Imbody. He will return to Marion Sunday night.

Dr. Imbody this morning reviewed the year of intensive work his son had put into construction of the coach that won him the scholarship in any university of his choosing. The money will be placed in trust for him and will draw interest until he is ready to use it. His father said he has indicated preference for Ohio State university and probably will continue his studies there after finishing high school studies here. He will be a sophomore next term at Harding High school.

Imbody not only used raw materials for his coach — he made most of the tools with which he fashioned the model vehicle, patterned after the best features of the coaches used by Napoleon at the time of his coronation and at the time of his wedding.

MEN ARRESTED HERE ADMIT MORE HOLDUPS

Bucyrus Police Say Pair Confess Maassillon and Ashland Robberies.

Two alleged filling station bandits captured here Aug. 15 by Marion police after gasoline service stations in Galien and Bucyrus were held up and robbed have confessed to holdups at Maassillon and Ashland last week, Bucyrus police said today.

They are Patrick O'Leary, 22, and Eugene E. Long, alias Edward Lantz, 20, of Mansfield. The youths are being held in the Crawford county grand jury under $5,000 bond each on charges of robbery.

An attempt was being made by department of justice agents today to connect the automobile the men were driving when captured with one stolen from the government reservation at Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 8. The officers charge the car is the same, but Lantz and O'Leary maintain the car they are driving was taken from the streets in Memphis, Tenn.

When arrested the men gave their homes as Gulfport, Miss., but Bucyrus police said Long admitted his true name and that his home is in Mansfield. Police said Long is in probation from the Richland county common pleas court.

The men were captured at a filling station at North Main and George streets by Night Capt. Ore DeWeer and Patrolman Kirk. Two revolvers and $112.34 in cash were found in their automobile.

ENACTMENT OF COAL BILL NEAR

House and Senate Conferences Reach Final Agreement on Measures.

ANTI-TRUST LAW HOLDS

Realignment of Minimum Price Areas Promises To Cause Hostilities.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—A final agreement on the Guffey coal stabilization bill was reached today by house and senate committees appointed to adjust differences over the legislation.

The draft agreed upon includes a ban against suspension of anti-trust laws for producers complying with the "code" to be set up for the soft coal industry.

Prompt approval of the anti-trust amendment, by Sen. Borah, Republican of Idaho, was foreseen in both branches.

Final Opposition
But indications were still opposition might be encountered in the senate against elimination of an amendment realigning minimum price areas.

Under it, Illinois, Indiana and Iowa would comprise a separate minimum price area instead of being grouped with Pennsylvania, West Virginia and parts of Kentucky and Tennessee.

The bill, creating a "little NRA" for the bituminous industry, has been advocated strongly by President Roosevelt to test the government's regulatory powers. It would set up a national commission to regulate mining and levy a 15 per cent tax against coal. Most of the tax would be returned to complying producers.

The conferees agreed to strike out certain amendments providing that not more than three members of the coal commission could be members of the same political party.

To Avoid Politics
Senator Neely, Democrat of West Virginia, said it was felt this amendment would have injected politics instead of eliminating it. He asserted, however, there was no understanding that appointments to the commission would be "non-political."

A similar amendment to prevent more than two members of the proposed bituminous coal labor board belonging to the same party also was eliminated.

Representatives of the United Mine Workers of America, staunch supporters of the bill, expressed "complete satisfaction" with the agreement.

Overriding protests the legislation was unconstitutional, the senate passed the measure late yesterday by a vote of 45 to 37. It was approved by the house last Monday.

To Ban Price Fixing
Sen. Borah said his amendment "eliminated" price fixing. Opponents of the bill, said they thought it would be difficult to fix prices effectively if the producers faced prosecution under the anti-trust laws.

On final passage, 36 Democrats, six Republicans and Sen. LaFollette, Progressive of Wisconsin, were in the majority. Opposed were 24 Democrats, 12 Republicans and Sen. Shipstead, Farmer-Labor of Minnesota.

President Roosevelt asked for approval of the bill to avert a threatened coal strike. Four times since last April, the United Mine Workers have continued last year's wage scale at his request to give congress time to act on the Guffey bill.

The miners have asked a 10 per cent pay increase and a cut in hours from 35 to 30.

The present extension of the old wage scale expires Sept. 1. Negotiations for a new contract are to be resumed as soon as the President signs the bill.

HOMEMADE 'SCOPE

Telescope Made By Marion Men Nearly Finished

Amateur Astronomers Build Own Instrument; Now in Hobby Show Display.

The hundreds of Marion residents who this week saw a completely home-made telescope shown at one of the store window displays during the second annual hobby show were looking at the handwork of two young Marion men who are prepared to enter the field of amateur astronomy.

The 80-power instrument was made by Harry Clark, 18, who lives with his mother, Mrs. Iva Clark, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Mitchell at the Mitchell home at 244 Madison avenue, and James McClelland, 23, who is staying at 224 Nell avenue.

Now finishing work on the telescope, Clark and McClelland said they are interested in astronomy, but doubt if they will get more pleasure and satisfaction from their study than they have had building the instrument.

They worked night and day to complete the tube, made of oak strips, and install the mirror and other parts in order to place it on display this week in connection with the hobby show.

Yet to be made is the concrete base, which will be poured around a discarded automobile motor in such a way that the telescope may be turned in one of the main bearings of the motor.

Could Increase Power
By changing eyepieces at a comparatively small cost, McClelland said the power of the telescope could be increased to as high as 400 power.

Clark, a native of Texas, was graduated from Regan High school at Houston, Tex., at the age of 15 and entered the Georgia School of Technology at Atlanta to study mechanical engineering when he was 16. A year later he left school and came to Marion, taking over the operation of a filling station at East Center and Spricer streets which now bears his name.

McClelland spent two and one-half years in the navy.

FHA MORTGAGE CLINIC OPERATES AT TOLEDO

State and National Officials Watch Functioning of Financial Setup.

By The Associated Press
TOLEDO, O., Aug. 23—State and national housing officials watched closely today the progress of the federal housing administration's model insured mortgage clinic here, the first of its kind to be held under the FHA's auspices.

Applications for loans totaling $665,000 were received yesterday, Leslie S. Baker of Washington, manager of financial relations for FHA, said that Toledo interests had asked for $660,000 to refund 125 mortgages.

Of the 262 applications received, 180 were for refinancing and 82 were for the construction of new homes in the amount of $893,000. In addition, applications were made for $9,000 to improve and modernize homes.

Toledo has been selected by the federal housing administration for a model clinic because, as far as is typical American city, Toledo has the lowest rate of mortgage delinquency.

The "model clinic" is being held here to test the effectiveness of the FHA's mortgage insurance fund.

State and national officials watched the functioning of the financial setup.

PLACE FORCES TO MEET CRISIS

Report Navy Not Ready for Action in Mediterranean Causea Concern.

ACTIVITIES STIR ITALIANS

Rome Officials Uneasy on Hearing of British Movements in Nearby Waters.

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Aug. 23—Great Britain's powerful imperial defense committee, working speedily upon cabinet instructions in view of the war clouds in east Africa, today began the reallocation of British fighting forces along the vital points likely to be affected by a war.

Meeting at 10 Downing Street, close behind yesterday's emergency cabinet session, the committee, which functions almost as a war council, began to review all questions affecting the general strategic defense of the empire.

Claim Navy Not Ready
Reports current in official circles were that the cabinet ministers were thrown into confusion by a statement that the admiralty does not feel the British navy is ready and prepared for action in the Mediterranean.

The cabinet was reported to have called for sanctions against any nation going to war in defiance of its treaty obligations providing such sanctions were administered through the League of Nations by a vote of the league council. The council will meet Sept. 4 at Geneva.

Meanwhile, the defense committee's secret session was followed by numerous reports from widely scattered army and navy posts and other points that contingents of Britain's fighting forces were being hurriedly assembled as reinforcements for potential danger points.

Suez Canal Main Point
The Suez canal, the link between the Mediterranean, the Red Sea, and the far East, forms the focus point for all present defense plans because of the general British belief that this would be the first danger point in case the Italian-Ethiopian hostilities should spread beyond the confines of the black empire.

Plans for strengthening the defenses of British territory adjacent to Ethiopia and for the reinforcement of all strategic points along the Mediterranean, the Suez canal, and African areas have been under way quietly for about two months. It was learned, and decision to speed up the program was regarded as precautionary.

Following the meeting of the imperial defense committee MacDonald returned to Lonsdalemouth, Scotland, to resume the vacation which yesterday's cabinet call had interrupted.

Mr. Samuel Hoare, Anthony Eden, minister for the League of Nations affairs, and Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, are remaining on duty. They will make decisions on points arising during negotiations prior to the Sept. 4 meeting of the League of Nations council.

British Fleet Reported Moving Near Italy

ROME, Aug. 23—Reports of a British fleet movement in the Mediterranean and near Gibraltar were uppermost in the discussions of informed circles today.

A government spokesman, however, said the situation "had not changed" officially.

He explained that Italy had received no official word as to yesterday's decision of the British cabinet in London.

Meanwhile the Italian troop concentration reached its highest level with preparations for the forthcoming war maneuvers in northern Italy which Premier Mussolini will command

5,000 IN VILLAGE FOR CELEBRATION

In charge of yesterday's celebration was the late President Harding. The passing of a century was celebrated in a number of ways. One could take rides at Bloominggrove yesterday in an old stagecoach hauled by a team of horses. Those who saw the historical pageant at night saw the dramatization of events that were a part of the early history of the community and many of the important events that contributed to the development of the town once known as Harding's settlement. Also there was a historical quilt made by women of the community showing in map form the present village and bordered with sketches of historical significance. The quilt was awarded to Mrs. Ruth Negley of Lexington.

Charence Brown of Pleasanton, former secretary of state and Republican nominee for governor in 1912, paid tribute to the memory of the late President Harding.

Speaking of the late President's remarkable personality and his ability as a leader, Mr. Brown before giving a prepared talk told how in 1912 two groups of Ohio Republicans advanced two different men for state chairman and deadlocked over a choice. In an effort to break the deadlock both groups sent representatives to Washington, D. C. to put the question to Mr. Harding then United States senator.

Meeting the representatives separately, Mr. Harding told each group their choice was wrong. Mr. Brown recalled when both groups found out he had rejected their choices they again went to Mr. Harding who smilingly reiterated that neither of the choices they had made was the right one. Mr. Harding then told the representatives that the man you need for state chairman is the man you need for state chairman. He said: "Shortly afterward both groups agreed on his suggestion and choice and a party break was closed."

In his talk, Mr. Brown said it is well that in days like these we pause for a moment to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of a pioneer community for it was communities like these that gave to our state and nation the strength the patriotism and the vision from which the nation was built.

To but few communities comes the honor of furnishing the nation a President. Bloominggrove must always be linked with the name of her most illustrious son—Warren G. Harding. It was here the home of his pioneer ancestors that he first saw the light of day. It was here as a country boy that he drank from the fount of patriotism. It was here amidst the open fields and the woods that Warren G. Harding learned to know and worship God. It was here that he learned the value of hard work and plain living—and the path of poverty and privation—which gave him an understanding of the problems of his fellowmen.

It was here from the strength of the soil and the pioneer spirit of his people that he drew the inspiration that carried him to high places.

I am proud that he was my friend. Humble of spirit, tolerant in his views, quiet and gentlemanly in manner, correct in conscience, gifted in speech, wise in counsel, courageous and determined, he typified the best in American manhood.

Warren G. Harding knew life and loved it. He understood his fellowmen as few have been given the power to understand. He obtained real satisfaction from being able to assist those who needed his aid. While a partisan he was not a bitter one. A firm believer in our form of representative government, he consistently fought to protect and further it. As a result his fellow citizens honored him in state and nation. Yet in the very fruition of his public career he found the cup of bitterness placed at his lips. During his incumbency of the presidency he was a victim of the most vicious and insidious campaign of propaganda and misrepresentation ever known in American politics. Nothing was too low or loathsome to be used by those who opposed him in their attempt to gain power. He died a martyr in the arena of American politics but he continues to live a shining figure in the memory of all those who knew him.

"As we look upon the American scene today I believe that a multitude of American citizens join with me in the futile wish that we had during the present crisis the guidance of Warren G. Harding. His love and respect for our institutions his courage in protecting the constitutional rights both in person and property of American citizens his wisdom in counsel his vision and capacity as a leader Warren G. Harding was a soul American. He sprang from the soil and from humble beginnings he reached the heights yet never left behind him those in the valley. He shall ever live and because of his eternal life this community shall always be a sacred spot to every true American."

Mr. Brown's talk was given at a brief service in front of the school building after Dr. John T. Marsh, man professor of speech at Ohio Wesleyan university and a native of the community had dedicated a bronze marker to commemorate the centennial celebration.

Among the persons who attended the celebration were Heber H. Volaw and Mrs. Volaw who is one of the two remaining sisters of the late President and youngest of the family, both of Washington, D. C. Charles W. Harding, III, both of Worthington, O., and both nephews of the late President. Mrs. George T. Harding Sr. of Marion, step-mother of the late President. Mrs. George T. Harding Jr. of Worthington, sister-in-law of the late President. Ralph T. Lewis of Marion brother-in-law of the late President. Dr. George

My P. Chinnock (Stevens) of Oakland Calif. and Franklin Rhinhardt 95 of Riverside Calif. believed to be the oldest surviving member of the group of 10 young men from the Bloominggrove vicinity to enlist in the Civil war were read.

Also present was Mrs. Harry Denman of Marion a daughter of the late President. The late President's mother was a sister of Mrs. Denman's grandfather. She recalls that Mr. Harding was a frequent visitor at Bloominggrove although he moved from there to Caledonia with his parents when he was about seven years of age. She remembers he attended the first Harding family reunion in 1904 at Bloominggrove and attended most of the family reunions in later years.

Two former Bloominggrove residents who are now active in church work in other states spoke on the afternoon program on the lawn of the school. Rev. Harry D. Finney D. D. pastor of the U. S. Wesleyan of Arkansas Presbyterian church at Fayetteville, Ark. spoke paying tribute to early settlers of the community and expressing gratitude for the three fold inheritance they had left to later generations in the form of (1) physical stamina that grew from hard work (2) educational interest that resulted in Bloominggrove setting a high educational standard and producing an unusually large number of teachers and (3) religious tolerance.

As long as America has enough Bloominggroves the future of the country is secure, he said.

Rev. Leonard Gartner, born near Bloominggrove on the farm where the late Bishop Harris a Methodist bishop once lived and who is now joined by his church at Hibbing Minn. to do work among CCL camps in that state also spoke likewise praising the character building influences of the community's homes schools and churches.

Old Timers' Speak
Among old timers called upon by Loren Harding chairman for brief remarks were G. W. Coulson 78 resident of the community for 78 years. Mrs. Gertrude K. Meek of Cleveland native and former teacher in the community. David Black former teacher here and also a former teacher at Prospect. Boyd W. Snyder of Johnsville and D. W. Richardson of near here two of the three living former post masters. Verne Dent of near here former teacher and former Marion resident. Mrs. Kitty Stone of Bloominggrove. Letters from Mr.

Mrs. Bertha Dene of Mansfield national chaplain of the Daughters of Union Veterans presented a flag in the community in behalf of the Gallor chapter of the organization. Rev. B. P. Lewis of the Methodist church accepted it in behalf of the central committee.

One of the highlights of the day's program was a parade in which historical floats and displays commercial and industrial floats and decorated automobiles took part. The parading column was approximately half a mile long.

The Williamstown and Crestline bands furnished music. An organ recital was given last night at the seventh day Adventists church. This church and the M. E. church operated lunch stands. Antiques of historical significance in the community were on display in the school building.

Queen Is Crowned
One of the final events of the day's program was the crowning last night of Miss Irene Gartner 16 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gartner of east of Bloominggrove as centennial queen. She appeared in the parade with a float her father a dog raiser and farmer had prepared.

The pageant was directed by Mrs. D. L. Chambers of south of Bloominggrove. She also was narrator except for a prologue given by Miss Joan Marahman 19 the youngest given in the school yard started with an Indian encampment showing Capt. Pipe a chief train bringing home a deer for his family into the scene walked Mordella Harding who first came to the community in 1818. Indians are shown planning to kill the white visitors who settled nearby but the family was warned of their peril by Johnny Applesed a character of frontier days. The Hardings then returned to Pennsylvania but returned in 1920 and made peace with Capt. Pipe. The Indians later disappeared.

Other settlers were shown coming to the community and later scenes depicted the first circuit rider establishment of a church arrival of school teachers early mail carriers a Civil war enlistment scene and impersonation of a number of old time residents. Principal characters in the pageant included Walter Chambers. Miss Wanda Huber Mr. and Mrs. Stone Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Stone G. W. Keller Ralph Gartner Loren Harding E. E. Wars Cost Money.

The skeptic's answer to Ethiopia's declaration to defend itself against Italy is a querulous "What with?" Wars cost money.

Ethiopia has scant credit. Its resources are limited. It is dependent on friendly nations for munitions and war equipment.

Its population is not even known. Though generally estimated at approximately 10,000,000, an official report from the British consul at Addis Ababa in 1932 placed it at 5,500,000.

In 1920, when Ethiopian exports reached a peak, the total value of goods passing through the port of Djibouti in French Somaliland was approximately $4,500,000. In the same year, the total value of Ethiopian imports through the same port was $7,820,000.

Coffee, hides and beeswax are the principal products. Ethiopia buys chiefly cotton sheeting, other cotton goods and cotton yarn. According to a British consular report of 1932, "little is to be expected from Ethiopia until the conservation of the rural population is overcome and modern methods find an application."

The potentialities of Ethiopian products are unknown. Mineral resources, whose extent has not been determined, are undeveloped. It is interesting to note, however, that since 1900, while Ethiopia's export trade has increased about 70 per cent the export trade of its neighbors—Kenya, Uganda and the Sudan, all under British rule, have increased from 1000 to 1500 per cent. Italy is interested in potentialities.

Ethiopian resistance to Italian invasion obviously will be limited by its small finances. Though Italy, itself, is not well situated financially, its position is vastly better than that of Ethiopia. The one war factor which cannot be estimated on paper, however, is determination, and that may prove to be in the end as important as credit. Ethiopians will be fighting for the right to control their native land; Italians will be fighting for the privilege of establishing foreign authority over a people who love freedom.

Assurance.

The Davey administration's negotiations with PWA for that $20,000,000 friendship fund Ohio is going to get are proceeding rapidly. Secretary of Interior Ickes is reported to be settling his lawyers to work to fix up assurance that the 35 per cent of the $20,000,000 which the state would have to borrow will be repaid when the time comes.

Gov. Davey is taking it for granted the state wants to borrow the money. There is, of course, no question about the approximately $9,000,000 which it could get as a grant. In all probability, legislators, when the question is put up to them, will be so excited about the $9,000,000 they will give only passing thought to the $11,000,000 Ohio would have to pay back.

Three proposals for repaying the loan have been made. One is to allocate money from the general fund until the obligation is met. Another is to use funds raised by bonds issued by a state relief corporation. That, definitely, would entail a nice constitutional question, since the state's authority to issue bonds is limited. The third is to authorize new taxes for the express purpose of repaying the loan.

For practical purposes, the third proposal is the only one that needs to be considered. Whatever method is employed, tax is the result. In fact, if it weren't for taxes, no one possibly could object to borrowing $110,000,000 instead of only $11,000,000.

His Service to Humanity.

There's no denying the senate lobby investigation committee and the corresponding house committee have made a good thing out of Howard C. Hoppson's appearances before them. Mr. Hoppson has been a prize witness for their purposes.

That is to say, he has lent himself easily, though involuntarily, to the intent of the investigation, which is to start a backfire against the blaze of popular feeling fanned by the public utilities in their successful fight on the original Wheeler-Rayburn bill. Mr. Hoppson is not what the new dealers would call an enlightened industrialist. He could not even win the title from his associates.

He has performed indirectly an important service to his country and his industry, nevertheless. That service consists in demonstrating how not to conduct his

George H. Van Fleet.

Should a history of Marion newspaper publishing be written, whether now or in the years to come, the name and record of George H. Van Fleet will occur; a foremost place.

Only one man's work and influence in Marion newspaper making transcended that of Mr. Van Fleet. That man was Warren Harding. During the greater part of a half century he was Mr. Van Fleet's employer, but their business relationship was so close and mutual throughout most of the years that they were essentially partners. That was because they were intensely and increasingly enthusiastic in their work, constantly intent upon producing a newspaper of high quality, and in virtually perfect agreement on journalistic policies and principles. As a result there existed that situation, so desirable and yet often rare, in which absolute harmony of interest and endeavor leaves no dividing line between employer and employee.

Were Mr. Harding here to voice a tribute to his former newspaper executive, beyond doubt he would say that Mr. Van Fleet deserved a large share of credit for success of The Star during their years of association.

Mr. Van Fleet, who died at his home here yesterday, was a newspaper man first, last and all the time. To him his work was not just a means of employment and source of livelihood. To it, during his many years of activity, he gave his seemingly limitless energy and from it he derived keenest enjoyment. This was true even up to the time of his retirement three years ago at the age of 58.

He might fittingly have been termed an editor of both the old and new schools, for his work extended through two generations. As in the case with executives proficient in any productive enterprise, he kept in step with the times and conformed to changing styles and methods as they came with newspaper development in the passing years. The Star of 1885, when he entered its employ, was a model among small city newspapers of that era, but of course vastly different in general makeup and presentation of news from The Star as it was when he retired in 1932.

He was firm and unyielding, however, in his adherence to the fundamental journalistic principles adopted by Mr. Harding and him during their early years. He was insistent in his demands for accuracy, for fair and kindly treatment of those whose names appeared in print, for thoroughness and clarity in news reporting and writing, for giving both sides in every controversy, and for utmost care and consideration in all other matters of concern to citizens either individually or collectively.

Thorough and exact in all his own work, he demanded the same from those employed under his direction. When duties were not performed in accordance with his standards, he was outspoken in his disapproval, but he was equally ready and unhesitating with praise for work well done.

Mr. Van Fleet never wrote on any subject until he had studied it in all its phases and was satisfied that he had acquired a complete understanding. That was characteristic of all his handling of editorial and news matters, and as this research and study covered a span of almost 40 years, he came to possess a store of knowledge regarding a wide range of subjects that was veritably amazing.

It is not surprising that The Star, under Mr. Harding's guidance and with a co-worker so loyal and competent as Mr. Van Fleet, attained high rank among the country's small city newspapers. This distinction was gained from adoption of a policy which called for a daily publication completely informative but never dull, always pleasing to its readers, always advancing in the path of improvement, and always an advocate of the best things for community, state and nation.

Naturally, as Mr. Van Fleet was helping accomplish this, he was making a substantial contribution to Marion's general welfare. Although doing his work in the newspaper office and plant and avoiding the spotlight, for he never sought or asked public acclaim, the constructive community service he performed through nearly 40 years in Marion journalism certainly can be appraised at high value.

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—Thoughts while strolling: Good word for pain in the neck—carbuncle. The soap box orators are now up to 724 street. What became of the brown straw hat? Country boy's notion of a city slicker. Charles I. Scott, the insurance man, Bang-up name for an ash-can concern: Tip Top.

Add meriting names: Radcliff Romaine and Claire St. Noble. For the next Jeeter Lester in "Tobacco Road"—Ewing Galloway. Walter Damrosch seems always lost in abstraction. Memory: Walking on the picket fence to show off before the Only Girl. Next writing name: Bob Wagner. Sing-alikes: Helen Morgan and Winnie Fred Shaw. And Glenn L. Martin, aviation pioneer, is a ringer for Gerald Briggman. One thing about Roxy, no one ever heard him whine. Hal Phyre and Jack Dempsey have the same cat-like glide. The Times book critic, Robert Van Gelder.

Those fleet-footed, flannelled young men who cross town for the tennis courts before sundown. No one can hunger me up for food like Bruno Lesting. So even the great Patou had to hang up his shutters in Paris. Strong faced men: J. Aubrey Smith and the late Ernest Torrence. Longest eyelashes: Jim Flagg. Morton Downey and Peter Arno. Their oxygen service, shops open 24 hours. The chiropractors now three-sheet their virtues on bill-boards. Hope Jane Cowd never becomes a blonde. Never saw a night watchman reading nor met a man named Cedric.

The most commercially successful modern poet is Arthur Guiterman. He has an office where he turns out in a workman-like manner sonnets for all who pay the price. In his 60's, he is a vigorous exponent of outdoor life, a woodsman, canoeman and mountaineer. His summer home is in the Green Mountains of Vermont. His most widely quoted poem is "Death and General Putnam," an effort Lloyd George reputedly reads when fatigued.

At 10, when Jed Kiley was attending boarding school near Chicago he was editor of the class paper. A poem Kiley wrote about a kitten inspired a 13-year-old in another class to poe-kizing. Kiley printed the first effort. The years rolled by. Each almost forced the other until a recent day on a Washington, D. C. street when they collided. Kiley had been chafing around the country looking for health and winning up in hospitals. He had touched long in despair "when he came upon his long-ago friend. He was whisked to that friend's Virginia estate where, after two months of complete rest and care, he recovered. The friend was Jay Jerome Williams, known to the radio and newspaper strip as Edwin Alger.

Joe Cawthorn is last of the spitting diabol comedians and one remaining steadily in harness. Contemporaries, such as Kolb & Dill, Weber and Fields, Sm. Bernard, Louis Mann, Bickel and Watson and Cliff Gordon have passed from the scene, by death or retirement. I am wondering what a modern audience's reaction would be to Cawthorn's most hilarious paper that brought down the house in Victor Herbert's "The Fortune Teller." It was a couplet delivered in German Kultur. "I had a little bird and his name was Enza. I opened der cage and influenza." People shrieked and bent the backs of neighbors pewed in front. Another roll in the aisle was provoked when he tried to pronounce "vies-tude," growing so inclement that the orchestra solemnly raised umbrellas in sudden defense.

One of my erudite correspondents stipules in the spelling of two conspicuously simple words. He spelled "gravid" and "despair" deeply. Recently in a brave moment I called his attention to the derelictions, curious as to the why. His answer is direct with simplicity. "I just like my way better."

O, yes, it was Cawthorn, an expert angler of striped bass in real life, who first perpetrated a gag that still hobs up in the funny papers. Over a stage mantle was mounted a stuffed and shabbed fish. "Whoever caught that fish is a liar." (Copyright, 1935, McNaught Syndicate)

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Aug. 22, 1925. Dr. Jesse Swank, pastor of Epworth M. E. church, was speaker at the union church service held at the Central Christian church. Rev. M. L. Buckley, former pastor of the church, presided.

Stanley Hite was elected president of the Marion County Hillman club at its sixth annual picnic held at Garfield park.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Kette and Ralph Kette of Hane avenue returned from a 10-day trip to New York City, Washington and Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Warner and family of Girard avenue returned from a month's motor trip to California, Washington, British Vancouver and other points in the west.

Miss Paul M. Harman and Carl P. Holly, both of Marion, were united in marriage at the Epworth M. E. parsonage by Dr. Jesse Swank.

The community band concert at the Chautauque pavilion, given by Marion local American Federation of Musicians under the direction of L. B. McNeal, drew nearly 1,200 persons, one of the largest audiences attending the weekly concerts during the summer.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Aug. 23, 1915. A dispatch from Washington reported that Germany would have to either disavow sinking of the steamship Arago, or make a satisfactory explanation of why the liner fell victim to a German submarine. Otherwise the dispatch stated, the United States would recall Ambassador Gerard and break off diplomatic and commercial relations with Germany.

The state tax commission placed the valuation of the Marion Water Co. plant at $306,530, an increase of $38,520 over the preceding year.

Dr. A. J. Richardson, for 50 years a Union county physician, died at his home at Summerville, west of Richwood. He was the father of Dr. E. O. Richardson of Marion. Dr. F. R. Mann returned from a vacation visit of several days in Cleveland and at Rio Beach.

William Orms and Tracy Burke left for a vacation visit at Russell's Point and Lima. Mr. and Mrs. George D. Lippincott returned from a visit at Rio Beach.

BEHIND THE NEWS IN WASHINGTON AND WALL STREET

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—The British seem to be more excited about Ethiopia than anything since the World War. The king and cabinet could not be excited more gravely if the Italian conquest were going to be staged in the yard at Buckingham Palace instead of in darkest Africa.

A story is going around that what has shaken customary British reserve is the prospect that the Italians will cut the Ethiopian headwaters of the Nile and thus ruin British interests down the river. It is true that the modern Romans intend to come very close to Lake Tana, which feeds the Nile. The lake is only 150 miles back up in Ethiopia and just off the direct Italian route to Addis Ababa.

But you may accept as a flat fact that the British have already taken that matter up with Mussolini. He has given them private assurances that he will guarantee British drainage rights if he conquers the territory. Consequently, the British have more reason to feel safe with Mussolini in control than they have had under Ethiopian rule. Mussolini's interest is in soil, not water.

A better but still inadequate explanation is the widespread one that there are two big questions back in the British mind. What will the Yugoslavs do to Italy with Mussolini's army off in Africa?

What will Hitler's move do in Austria during the same absence of the Italian cat?

Those who think they know what is going on in world diplomacy have here Mussolini has also thought of these things. In fact, they have been tipped that Mussolini has a secret agreement with the French to watch what will go on in Europe behind his back. The possibility of a European backwash to the Ethiopian war therefore are not generally considered dangerous unless Mussolini's Ethiopian campaign drags out for a longer time than he thinks it will.

What the British have in mind particularly need not thus be speculated upon. While they have said little out loud, their diplomatic agents have been quite specific in communicating their apprehensions to other nations, notably France. They told the French, in effect:

"The conquest of Ethiopia will mean the end of the League of Nations and the end of a world era. Prior to the World War, nations did not even present to have a conscience. They took what they wanted and could get. The League was founded while the world was in a conscientious mood. It has not done anything important economically. Its single accomplishment worth noting was prevention of the disintegration of Austria. Its failure in Manchuria was a world joke. But, at least, Manchuria was far enough off to permit the League thereafter to pretend that it was still a benign influence. But if Mussolini walks off the League portfolio with his thumb at his nose, then pretense will no longer be possible. It is the end of the conscience era."

That, say the British, is worth getting excited about.

Resolves. None of the munitions makers closed up shop when the senate passed the neutrality resolutions. There is good reason to suspect they will be doing business at the old stand for a long long time.

What happened was that the new dealers had to concoct a resolution hurriedly to avoid a senate filibuster. They put together one which is sufficiently indefinite and permissive to be virtually innocuous. For instance, the first resolve is "that upon the outbreak or during the progress of war . . . the President shall proclaim, such fact etc." Under that order the President might wait until the war had progressed to a conclusion before acting.

M. CLOUD, Calif., Aug. 23—would come to live a few longer than the span were the palm of your hand, speck months of each summer I near by, close to the foot of Shasta. Warm days, cold wonderful air blowing through tall pines, better, more true air wind, except possibly, a rural red wine, properly aged grown in California.

Shasta's snows are melting come rushing down through roaring McCloud river to the Sacramento river and on to the Pacific. The trout do not like snow, because it brings down of Shasta's red soil. But the pines like it, and workers, in the great sawmill here, for it comes down almost and makes the air cool.

Describe a Tall Pine. Who can describe Niagara rise, a baby's smile, or a piest? Nobody. Saw off one of pines, which would be plainer, and the smooth stump provide a good table for a "torn" meeting. That is all I say, except that each old giant, pointing straight to the top, hundreds of years ago, there to stay hundreds of years more if man permits, soon smile at the tiny men looking with their necks bent back. How could they guess the rushing water, giving life to roots, supplies also the electric that makes two-by-four siding of their tall bodies, in houses for two-legged thin low?

A Quote for Mussolini. Even here men talk of "uh" and you are inclined to quote Mussolini, a letter that he wrote to the Duke de Rojitz, Russia. Napoleon's original in his faded handwriting, read in a mountain camp, by W. R. Hearst, close by. T. ter, given to Mr. Hearst by Kobler, millionaire collector of New York, is dated Oct. 18, 1812. It is about the question of the benefit of Napoleon low Italian, who does not English well.

It is probable that the gauged prolonger (out Hyver (inly spelled) et ce ne sera pas de St. Petersburg qu'on verra les yeux d'un Empereur.

"It is probable that the gauged prolonger (out Hyver (inly spelled) et ce ne sera pas de St. Petersburg qu'on verra les yeux d'un Empereur."

The Russians had burned cow, over Napoleon's head, speak, which was to mean for him, defeat, disgrace, a thought, failure and death it meant only less and row for Russia.

Thus do mortals, the great especially, deceive themselves. Few years of power, with a saying to them, anything "yes."

Napoleon goes on to tell the whom he addresses as my father of the general police: "Moscow no longer exists. Truly an important loss for empire."

Would Napoleon have been so kind some one said: "It is Napoleon, who exist no in Moscow will be rebuilt, with roads running under it, air flying over it, and a dicta a blue cotton blouse ruling such absolute powers as you knew."

Truly, to quote again for solini, Stalin and all the other fathers, Nul ne peut se heurter avant son dernier. ("No man may call himself before his last day.")

Will Mussolini find something Moscow in Ethiopia? Negus set fire to his jungle plains or to Addis Ababa other towns, as Italians through, or find a way to d pollute his wells and spin would have made little difference to Napoleon had he been able to and from the fire or through an airfield on ice or armored tanks, instead of reeling minorities, slowly through snow, on his white war horse soldiers dropping around him frozen in the snow, cut him with their eyes as they did.

War and destiny are uncertain but modern science, much engineering and chemistry, much uncertainty out of war medical science has conquered two most dangerous enemies conquest in hot countries, fever and malaria.

New Flying Gadget. Notice to flying lines.

It is easy to install an extremely useful little adjunct to aircraft for the convenience of passengers. It is a talking machine, or passenger dictate letters, or cicles, if they have the misfortune to be journalists, or high and if they chance to be happy and in the plane that brought newspaper person across the continent last Tuesday, the National Dictaphone company has a small dictaphone machine, even the plane, plugged the plane in the light system, a chine, so light that it could be held on the lap. (Comic column that indict "columns" in public will refrain from suggesting that some heavy "dictators" chine" have heretofore been on the lap.)

This dictating machine, made aluminum and glass, weighs 4 pounds, takes dictation with mistakes unless the dictator is them. The cylinders sent to reach New York that day in Chicago, next day from San Francisco, and the transcribing wires, "Airplane talking" chine dictation perfect.

STOMACH DISTRESS CAUSED BY DEEP SEATED IMPURITY

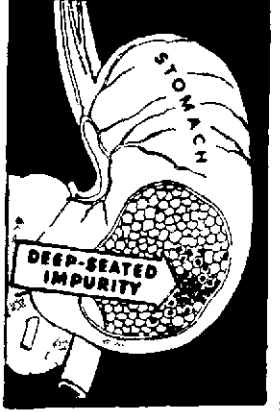

Common Symptoms Are Gas Pains, Rifting of Half-Digested Food, Shortness of Breath and Dizziness.

New Scientific Medicine Is Found That Works With Our Food, Called Indo-Vin, Brings Relief in Minutes And Costs Only a Trifle

There has been a notable discovery for the relief of stomach trouble. Not a cure-all, not a medicine but a new scientific mixture of juices from plants that works with our food. It is called Indo-Vin and is now being introduced to the public daily here in the Indo-Vin Man in 140 S. Eckerd's Drug Store 140 S. St. It was first introduced in a few weeks ago and has been a complete sensation in the public and public alike state helping people who had been really helped before by medicine bringing relief in the worst cases of stomach trouble found in this city.

What It Is

Indo-Vin is made from natural and taken shortly after meals with the food in which thus throwing off the food that fosters stomach and permitting the kid to eat in to function properly within 10 minutes to stop gas and belching and bring out awful gases and (frequently from the stomach) which may have been of you for a long time causing your blood and inner-gas spitting up of food shortness of breath lump in stomach and dyspepsia. It also has a great action upon the kidneys, liver and bowels and thus it cleanses and improves the whole system in general.

This is no mere tablet or pill and not a powder syrup or capsule. It does not contain alcohol or a single habit-forming drug but it is a scientific LIQUID mixture of juices from 27 Medicinal Plants. It is vastly different from any previously known formula containing perhaps more ingredients than three ordinary medicines put together. While it is being introduced in Marion every suffering person can try it at the small cost of only a few cents a day. So if stomach affliction or even some little digestive difficulty is bringing you misery it would certainly be a mistake not to try it.

The Indo-Vin Man is now at Eckerd's Drug Store 140 S. Main St. here in Marion daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining this new mixture of Nature's Medicines. Also being sold in all the nearby towns by every

Rogers Ranked As Hollywood's Outstanding Figure

Reunion With "Old Fred" Brought Supreme Happiness to Noted Humorist.

Probably no friendship of the modern show world was any stronger than that of Will Rogers and Fred Stone. Recently reunited in Hollywood where Stone went to have a fling in films the two are in Handy Andy

This is the third in a series of four Associated Press articles on the colorful career of Will Rogers.

HOLLYWOOD Aug 21—Will Rogers was Hollywood's most celebrated figure not merely its first ranking box office star—rated by the Motion Picture Herald but its good will ambassador to the world at large.

He came west in 1919 after stage success in New York to make a series of comedy features and shorts. But the Rogers drama and spontaneous wit were lost on the silent screen and in 1922 he returned to New York and gave Broadway another portion of Rogers laughs.

Back in Hollywood he came in 1929 to make talkies. They Had To See Paris was a Rogers success. They followed those successes in money making success.

With Fred Stone

It was twirling rope that first bound the friendship of Will Rogers and Fred Stone a quarrel of a century ago. And the bonds have wound fantastically through their brilliant careers even to the point that now in Rogers death the grief-stricken Fred Stone looks as probably the only man to carry on the Rogers tradition of homely humor in the films.

It may be that thus in tragedy the stages veteran actor will repeat at least to the public his old friend's celebrated feature when Rogers after Stone's critical injuries in a near fatal airplane crash in 1929 flew across the continent to open in Stone's new play for old Fred.

Talked With Cowboys

The ranches in question Stone learned by going over in Arizona—thousands of acres and whenever we met a cowboy Will had to stop and pass the time. After we had driven all over this ranch all day Will beat it back to the railroad station telegraphed the all-time to get the pass to sign for him and Jacobson. He was going to Chicago to meet Mrs. Rogers and Mary.

Fred Stone would be the first to deny any mention of himself or anyone else—as the one to carry on the Rogers tradition on the screen but Stone's first talkie role which Rogers lived to see is in the Rogers film.

Children Follow in Will's Steps

No less Associated Press at least two fields of endeavor in which Will Rogers excelled—polo and acting children of the late humorist will carry on the family name.

Will Jr. and Emma Rogers both have made their marks on the polo field. Both caught the fever

TALKS ON HOBBIES GIVEN AT MEETING

Earl N. Hale and Dr. F. A. Stengel Address Kiwanians

Marion Kiwanians turned over the program hour of their weekly luncheon in Hotel Marion yesterday to two men who are Kiwanians and members of the hobby club which is sponsoring the second annual hobby show this week.

Earl N. Hale, M. C. A. secretary, talked on hobbies to the President. He told Kiwanians if they wished to select one of the hobbies, those ideas and activities paralleled those of Kiwanians probably better than those of any other President they would choose Thomas Jefferson.

Jefferson, he said, fit close to the Kiwanian motto. He said he also said Jefferson probably was one of the most versatile Presidents being a musician, architect, historian, editor and farmer. Dr. F. A. Stengel, president of the hobby club, told of the evolution of prints of famous paintings explaining how color printing processes were developed that made it possible to make inexpensive copies of masterpieces. He displayed a number of prints.

CLUB HONORS TWO BRIDES AT GALION

Mrs. Charles Edinger and Mrs. Royal Eckstein GM Gifts

GALION, Aug. 15.—A unique Nit Witty party was given by Miss Marilyn Standell Thursday night when she entertained members of the Knit Witz club in honor of two recent brides, Mrs. Charles Edinger (formerly Almeda Crum) and Mrs. Royal Eckstein (the former Evelyn Edinger). Refreshments were served in the garden after which an Italian dinner was served in the home. The guests enjoyed coffee on the porch. The guests arrived in sunbrellas and requested on invitations which had been written back words. They were presented with miniature knitting needles and knitting equipment as favors. The honored guests received a shower.

A short reading by Miss Ruth Hefrich and the presentation of the study topic by Miss Mary Baidinger featured the meeting of the Women's Missionary society at the parish house of Peace Lutheran church Thursday night.

Progress of Science and Careful Living Credited for Longevity of Noted Men

NEW YORK—Would John D. Rockefeller Sr. have been able to enjoy his 90th birthday July 8 if he were not the rich oil magnate?

Scientists are disposed to think that he would not. His wealth has brought advantages which have made this longevity of life possible. It is his diet his constant medical attention and his method of living. Every meal is planned and nothing is allowed to worry him or cause him to become excited.

Although Rockefeller has lived longer than the average American can hope to still John Smith or Robert Jones can derive some little comfort in the knowledge that the average life span of the American male is now beyond 60 years—60.9 for white men and 64.4 for white women. And in 20 years if the statistical rise should continue the American can expect to live more than 70 years.

Overriding Killa Mans. Statisticians who related the figures say the phenomenal rise is not normal and are at a loss to account for it. So far mention the lack of severe epidemics in the last few years but no definite cause can be determined.

Then in however one noted member of the medical profession who casts some light on the subject. He is Dr. Adolph Lorenz, world renowned expert of blood surgery who has just passed his eighty-second birthday, a fact which makes him eligible to speak in an interview to said.

Repeal made for better digestion and the deprement is doing away with what used to be American waist habit—overeating. I am convinced that more men have died of overeating than of staying.

In Germany there is a saying the Germans drink themselves to death the French love themselves.

Officers elected were C. I. McKinley of Hiram, N. Y. president; Mrs. J. J. Smith of Galion, N. Y. vice president; and Miss Betty Smith of Cleveland secretary. The reunion next year will be held at the home of Mrs. J. J. Smith.

BRITON CLAIMS WAR WOULD INVOLVE U. S.

For my part I am convinced that if America and Britain even at this late hour declare themselves in a united voice and Italy refuses to listen to reason and will not submit to arbitration then the world will join in to leave her alone to live her own life apart from the civilized world.

Lansbury predicted an Italian-Ethiopian war was bound to mean a general upheaval.

As a majority of the ministers returned to their interrupted duties leaving as a skeleton cabinet Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary and Anthony Eden, minister for League of Nations Affairs. British war fears died down.

Some observers analyzing the apparently negative results of the five hour talk could see no reason for the session except for any possible effects the drama may have had on Mussolini.

The three main decisions taken by the cabinet they pointed out were merely to reiterate the policy already outlined by Hoare in the house of commons Aug. 1.

First Britain will adhere strictly to the league obligations but not alone second no change in the arms embargo third no official pronouncement on the question of sanctions.

Informed sources said the cabinet decided to propose joint general sanctions at Geneva Sept. 4 but this again was only a reaffirmation of policy—with the caveat that such joint general action of all the league members is required as he longed in the realm of fantasy.

A single dissenting ballot can block such sanctions.

The question of applying sanctions cannot even be debated for Italy at Geneva until war has been declared and the aggressor determined.

Consequently all Mussolini has to do is to muffle his guns until after Sept. 4 and thereby muffle all talk of sanctions.

What does it all mean? asked the London press. Is there no danger of war then? Did they find the magic way out?

When Britain has discharged her obligations to the covenant she will withdraw from the circle of treaty breakers. She will rely on the greater union of her own imperial peoples and the friendship and companionship of the United States.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Give Health Attention Now
VACATION DAYS will soon be over. I hope it has been a happy time for all and that a reserve of health has been acquired. Many a mother believes that because the child has had a vacation he will be in prime condition when school starts. Unfortunately this may not be true. Every boy and girl should have a complete health examination before returning to school.

Defects may not become apparent until later but now is the opportune time to find if they exist and to plan for their correction. Physical fitness will insure better progress in schoolwork. A check up on the child's health now may avoid many absences during the coming year.

Value Overlooked
Unfortunately many parents overlook the value of preventing or checking disease. This attitude is founded on the old fashioned belief that the time to see a doctor is when Johnny is sick and in pain.

The importance of regular visits to the doctor cannot be over stressed. Many of the chronic disorders of the adult would never appear if attention and care were given physical defects in early life. Even heart trouble and tuberculosis can be prevented or cured if caught in time.

At this time of the year the wise parent will take his child to the physician and the dentist. Now is the time to see that his hearing is not faulty and that he is not in need of glasses. If he is suffering from adenoids or enlarged and diseased tonsils they should be given attention before the school term commences.

Headache, toothache, earache, mouth breathing and other such complaints are needless physical handicaps. Children need every aid properly to build their bodies. Dental care is necessary to insure health. Both the physician and the dentist are considering dental decay with much more seriousness than in former years.

Regular Inspections
In the schools of the larger cities regular inspection is made to find physical and dental defects. Nutrition plays a most important role in producing good teeth and preventing dental decay. Any evidence of malnutrition and disorders of the mouth should always be given skilled attention.

Health examinations should be given with the new born infant. The child's health should be the primary concern of parents. If the youngster complains of some ache or discomfort do not disregard it and attribute it to growing pains. Nature gives warnings which should always be heeded.

JIMMY WALLINGTON RESIGNS NBC POST

Jimmy Wallington, veteran NBC network announcer, has resigned to go to Hollywood for a fling at the movies. The Associated Press reported today. Frank Singiser and Kelvin Keech, well-known announcers, also have quit NBC in order to free lance. The boys figure that with a couple of good commercial programs along with their outside activities they will make more money than on the regular job. Wallington has handled such popular programs as Eddie Cantor and Major Bowe's amateurs.

Course in Home Hygiene Here May Be Repeated

Classes in home hygiene and care of the sick which closed Friday at the Y. M. C. A. will be repeated this fall and winter. It is probable that the demand for the course will be sufficient to provide for all who wish to enroll for the fall and winter term, Mr. Lister said.

Classes just completed were held at the Y. M. C. A. under the auspices of the Marion county health department in cooperation with the American Red Cross. Mrs. Lillian Plack, executive secretary of the Red Cross, supervised the course.

Course in Three Groups

The course was divided into three groups as follows: Group one, for all who were members of the public and parochial schools last year; group two, for girls who were members of the sophomore and senior classes in high school last year; group three, for all women not included in the guidance in choosing the profession of nursing or allied subjects, Mr. Lister said.

Advanced Course

The course for the senior and adult groups was more advanced, and was intended to provide to all adult groups the simple, safe and effective means of meeting the many special problems in sickness and the emergency which may arise in any home. Students from each class who would volunteer were put to bed and instruction was given before the class how to properly bathe a patient and change the bed linen without removing them from the bed. It also stressed the proper care of infants and children, Mr. Lister said. Some of the outside activities introduced in the course were the observation tour through the Marion Water Co. plant, and the Moxes & Ross Dairy Co. Miss Delores McManes described her work as city nurse in Marion.

For those who were outstanding in the work in home hygiene and care of the sick, the American Red Cross proficiency certificates will be awarded. Those who will be awarded Red Cross certificates are: Junior group—Dorothy Layman, Mildred Columbus, Josephine McKinney, Betty Mae Knight, Virginia Knight and June Maskal; adult group—Mrs. S. M. Archer, Mrs. Willie Berry, Hazel Powers, Goldie Mullins, Mrs. Jane Frances, Mrs. Lulu Hisey, Mrs. Mary Kates.

WALDO DEMOCRATS TO SELECT TICKET

Special to The Star
WALDO, Aug. 22.—Waldo township Democrats will meet Tuesday evening, Aug. 27, at 8 p. m. at the Waldo township house at which petitions of nomination are expected to be made and signed for candidates for township trustee, a township clerk, members of the Waldo school district, board of education, constable and justice of the peace.

The meeting will be in charge of J. H. Tron and Ed Helby, Democratic committeemen in Waldo township and Waldo village respectively.

CONVENTION PLANS ARE MADE BY W. R. C.

Plans were discussed for entertaining delegates and visitors in attendance at the district convention to be held here Sept. 17, at a meeting of the Women's Relief corps Tuesday afternoon at the Legion, Piquette. Mrs. Mabel Thrall of Marysville is district president. Arrangements will be completed at a meeting Sept. 3 when a covered dish dinner will be served at noon. One candidate was initiated.
